Summer 2021

Monikers have meaning. A slogan or nickname is intended to epitomize the chief quality or characteristic of a person or a group. For members of the NYPD, it's "the Finest"; the Fire Department is "the Bravest" and the Sanitation Department, "the Strongest". For Local 237 members, with titles from A to Z, it's a lot more complicated to identify one nickname that encompasses all of the jobs we do. So, what is the common thread that applies to our members — whose daily work makes a significant difference in the lives of all New Yorkers, especially the most vulnerable — and who rose to new heights as essential workers throughout the pandemic? What one word would best describes them all? How about "The Most Reliable"? New Yorkers count on us and we deliver. And through our editions of Newsline, we have featured and will continue to feature Local 237 members whose tireless work underscores the fact that yes, we need "the Finest", "the Bravest" and "the Strongest" and we certainly need the "Most Reliable" too.

Peace Officers of the Department of Homeless Services

DHS Police 2021 Medal Day May 12, 2021

More than one half million people are homeless in America. 35% are unsheltered. The more than 80,000 homeless people in New York City — 4,000 of whom sleep on the street and in the subways — accounts for 20% of the nation's entire homeless population. The pandemic hit everyone hard, especially homeless people, for whom the shelter system made enforcement of Covid-related restrictions and precautions virtually impossible to implement and enforce. The City sought to devise a way to limit the risks by transferring 8,000 homeless people from shelters into hotels, which was greeted with tremendous community opposition. Most recently, with Covid-19 infection rates at a record low, Governor Cuomo lifted most remaining restrictions prompting the DeBlasio Administration to prepare to move those homeless back into the shelters. Our members of the Department of Homeless Services' Police Officers really have their work cut out for them! Taking on this new challenge demonstrates that among their many attributes, the "Reliable" moniker surely fits. They have a tough job that deals with a very vulnerable clientele, the bureaucracy, and the public who just want the problem to go away. It has been 5 years since their efforts were publicly recognized. In May, those DHS Police Officers, who gave above and beyond the call of duty, were honored at an award ceremony. Local 237 President Gregory Floyd was on hand to congratulate them. He said at the time: "These DHS Officers are heroes. No, they may not run into a burning building every day, or apprehend a killer every day or even protect us from rats and other vermin every day, but their work does entail all of these essential acts at any time, and for this, we must be grateful." ■

"I had the honor to present some awards to some of our DHS Peace Officers, Sergeants, Lieutenants and Captains at the DHS Police Medal Day held on May 12th. When I think of the DHS Police Department, I cannot think of a more resilient, compassionate and honorable group of individuals. DHS Police Officers are faced with daily high risk situations and adversities, and despite all of this, they give it their best every single day. DHS Peace Officers help keep homeless clients, staff, stakeholders, and our communities safe, and they do it with pride and honor. I salute them all!"

By Gregory Floyd

President, Teamsters Local 237 and Vice President-at-Large on the General Board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters

This year's New York City Primary was different from ever before. It was held in June — not in September, which has been the case forever. For previous elections, there was never early, in-person voting — but now there was. And there was rank choice voting, which enabled a voter to make more than one selection in their order of preference. Many viewed these voting innovations as an experiment intended to expand the number of voters and encourage a bigger and more diversified reservoir of candidates from which to choose.

But did this "experiment" work? Did it yield the results intended?

Unless a candidate clearly won by over 50%, the answers may not be known for weeks. But one thing is known for sure: Overall, the number of voters throughout the City did not dramatically increase. Why? With so many examples of voter suppression and disenfranchisement seen in other states, these measures in New York were supposed to do the opposite. They were supposed to motivate more people to vote. They were supposed to make it easier to vote. They were supposed to create a broader base of candidates — more appealing, newer, "woke" candidates to choose from — who were not beholden to political party machines and big money interests. So, what happened?

Perhaps the answer lies in the root problem. It's not just government-inflicted voter suppression, it's self-inflicted voter suppression... also called voter apathy. Something stuck in my mind as I exited my voting place on Election Day. I heard a campaign worker, who had been handing out literature for his candidate on the street corner, saying to people exiting the poll site wearing a sticker that read: I Voted! "Thank you so much for voting." Now, maybe this person was just trying to be pleasant or magnanimous, but I couldn't help but think, are "thanks" really appropriate? Throughout history, around the globe, voting has been viewed as a sacred, much fought-for privilege. Can we ever forget the newspaper images of long-denied voters, among them, first-time women voters in several Middle Eastern countries known for voter suppression, proudly displaying their ink-stained forefinger indicating that they had voted. Some even paid the price for such a display, with the chopping off of that finger by government opposition forces. Yet, in America, where voting — albeit imperfect — is considered a right and not a privilege, we have to find ways to persuade people to go to the polls. In New York, our new attempts at increasing voter turnout also led to new voter excuses. "I didn't know about the June Primary." "I don't understand that new rank choice system." "I tried to vote early but it wasn't my usual polling place, so I gave up." For others, the excuse was simply, "It was raining." It troubles me to think we need more voting enticements as much as we need better, more equitable voting laws. Consider the strategy used in

A message from the President

NYC's Voting "Experiment" a remedy a mistake or none of the above?

Australia, where voting is compulsory and failure to do so results in a monetary penalty, but where voter turnout is typically over 90%! Here, this solution would probably result in protests and lawsuits against "forced voting". So, the question remains: How do we elect the leaders we really want? How can we achieve a truly representative government that is not just trendy and, although seemingly attempting to be more inclusive, focuses on issues and manipulates the voting process that games the system and winds up excluding me? New York City's recent "experiment" saw more than 300 candidates vie for the City Council and a huge number of candidates bidding for top of the ticket spots. With millions of dollars spent, thousands of campaign workers and volunteers, huge labor support and a pandemic year of candidates braving it to beg for votes — it's mind boggling to think how a candidate can get only 2,000 votes. No voting innovation or voter rights law can adequately get people to the polls. Something more is needed. We hear and read so much about our country being like no other. America's democracy, despite its flaws, inequalities, and injustices, basically stands for great principles for the greater good. This country's Founding Fathers set up the concept in the opening line of our Constitution with the words "We the People of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union", yet nowhere in that document is the notion that while voting may be considered our right, it is also our obligation. It's our duty — school children should be taught it, young adults as they are filling out paperwork for a driver's license should be given voter forms as well and for other segments of our population, like our union brothers and sisters, the message that needs to be hammered home is: When you vote, you win. ▮

Here are those who were honored at the 2021 DHS Police Medal Day Ceremony and those who continue to personify "The Most Reliable".

EXCELLENT DUTY AWARDED FOR:

This year's honorees for the excellent duty category have collectively saved dozens of lives with overdose reversals, distributed PPE's paid for out of pocket to all of DHS police at the height of the pandemic, stopped a significant quantity of drugs from making it into shelters and have spent countless hours deescalating tense situations.

UNIT CITATION AWARDED FOR:

Outstanding performance by a unit or site for achieving the Agency's goals and objectives or other meritorious accomplishments during the course of a year.

This year's unit citation is awarded to DHS Police Training Academy. The staff at the training academy have been instrumental in the successful transition of the academy from NYPD trainers to DHS Police staff. With their dedication and hard work, they were able to work hand in hand with DACS to get over 300 DHS Police Officers recertified in the required annual training which focuses on the use of defensive tools. This was accomplished in a two-month time period, which is outstanding. Due to the unit's commitment and willingness to work extended hours, the Training Academy has created a curriculum and rolled out over a dozen courses which have created an exciting learning environment for the division staff. The unit works diligently to continue to develop new curriculum to remediate issues/challenges faced by DHSPD staff, helping move the division forward.

CAPTAIN, LIEUTENANT, SERGEANT AND OFFICER OF THE YEAR

MERITORIOUS DUTY AWARDED FOR:

Personal danger in the intelligent performance of duty, or a highly credible unusual accomplishment.

This year's honoree for Meritorious Duty is Steven Mann. Detective Mann has demonstrated dedication, integrity, leadership and exemplary performance for over 5 years. Last year, he assisted on 17 arrests, which resulted in found narcotics, weapons and illegal contraband. While on patrol, Detective Mann was called to respond to a disturbance in the dorm area of 30th Street and, in the course of investigation, uncovered 130 decks of heroin valued at $1300. He is praised for his exceptional work.

COMMENDATION AWARDED FOR:

An act of bravery intelligently performed involving personal risk to life.

The awardees for this Commendation are Abneros Rosil, Courtney Lacrete and Djef Hyacinthe. These officers have a reputation for being respectful, and compassionate to homeless clients. These officers went above and beyond the call of duty when, on December 13, 2019, they responded to a call at the roof of 200 Tillary, in which they saved the life of a suicidal client by handcuffing themselves to the client, who was ready to jump off the roof. They called 911 and EMS responded to care for the client. Their act of bravery is a great representation of the DHS Police mission.

TANYA MOORE PROMOTED, AGAIN

Tanya Moore started her career as a Special Officer, July 15, 2002 at Woodhull Hospital when NYC H+H was known as New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation. It didn't take long for Woodhull Hospital to recognize her talent and promote her to Detective in 2005. Not content to remain a Detective, she studied for and took the Sergeant exam (Supervising Special Officer level I). Of course she passed and was promoted to Sergeant, June of 2009. She was subsequently transferred to Kings County Hospital. Ms. Moore would serve in various positions during her tenure. These included, Training Instructor for the PMCS course and Integrity Control Officer, to name a few. While serving as a uniformed officer, Ms. Moore was promoted two additional times, to Lieutenant in December of 2009, and to Captain, in January of 2018. She never dreamed she would make HISTORY! May 24, 2021, Tanya Moore became the first female ever to be promoted to Assistant Director, Hospital Police, Kings County Hospital.

SSAs TO THE RESCUE

An incident at Health & Opportunities H.S. involving a freshman student underscores the meritorious work of our School Safety Agents. The female student entered the school shivering. She was approached by staff and school safety who asked her if she was cold. She told them that an unknown male had sexually assaulted her. School Safety Agent III Paulemon Jean, along with Agent Jaqia Powell, quickly canvassed the area and spotted an individual walking by the school entrance where the student had entered. Agent Brenda Batista and a school administrator brought the student to the area where she was able to identify the perpetrator. As Agent Powell was attempting to handcuff the perpetrator, who was resisting, Mobile Task Force Agents Louis Smith and Edwardo Delgado arrived at the scene and assisted in placing the perpetrator under arrest. Supervisor Taheen Oliver prepared a Line of Duty report for Agent Delgado, who was slightly injured. The perpetrator, Carlos Ramos, has an extensive criminal record and was charged with forcible touching and child endangerment. Mobile Task Force Agent Louis Smith processed the arrest.

Outreach To Vulnerable Populations During the COVID-19 Pandemic

People who struggle with low-income, limited English proficiency, homelessness, or with mental illness have historically relied on meeting with us in person at our local offices to get the help they need. Currently, Social Security offices are open only for in-person appointments for limited, critical situations, depending upon local office conditions.

If you cannot use our online services, please call your local office or our National 800 Number for assistance. If we cannot help you by phone, your local office can determine if an in-person appointment or other option may be available to help you.

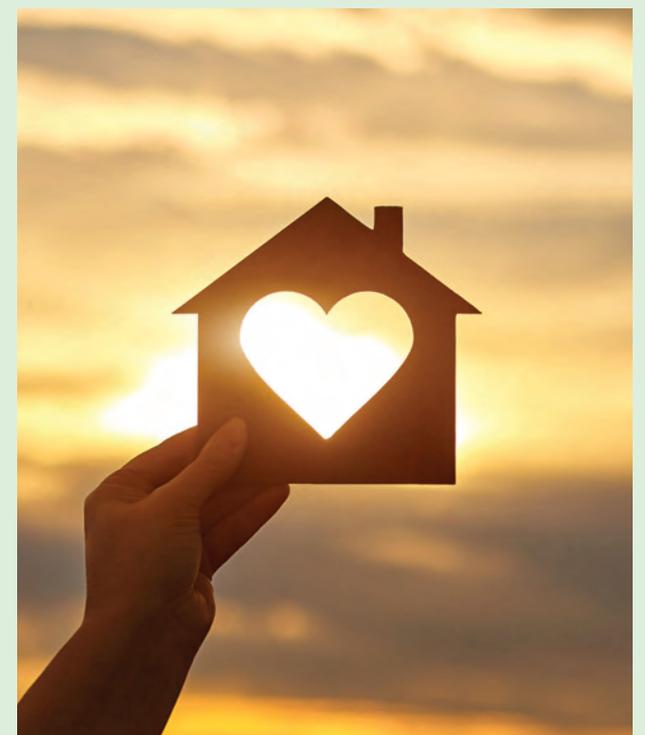

To serve those who need us most, we've partnered with community-based groups to launch a national outreach campaign. The goal of the campaign is to increase public awareness of our Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefit programs and support third-party groups that are assisting vulnerable individuals to apply for benefits. The SSI and SSDI programs provide critical financial assistance, and, in many cases, grant access to healthcare and the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, also known as SNAP.

Key components of our outreach campaign include:

- Working with community-based groups that can assist with taking applications for SSI and SSDI.
- Launching a national advertising campaign on TV, radio, and social media, with emphasis on benefits for children with disabilities.
- Adding new online tools and informational pages, including:
 - Resources for people helping others access our services at www.ssa.gov/thirdparty.
 - Outreach materials for partner groups working with vulnerable populations at www.ssa.gov/thirdparty/groups/vulnerable-populations.html.
 - Updated information for faith-based and community groups, including a new toolkit and fact sheets about SSI and SSDI, at <https://www.ssa.gov/third-party/groups/faithandcommunity.html>.

We want to thank the White House Office of Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships for working with us and sharing our website and products with their national network of community leaders.

We also want to thank members of the claimant advocacy community for their collaboration on this campaign. We will feature their perspectives on serving vulnerable populations on our blog over the coming weeks. Please be sure to visit and subscribe at blog.ssa.gov to receive alerts when we publish new articles from our partners, and share the latest information about our national outreach campaign. |

Personal Notes

are leading us back to normalcy.

With more and more New Yorkers getting vaccinated every day, the number of cases, hospitalizations and deaths have sharply decreased. That's a clear sign that the vaccines are working to protect us from the dangerous health effects, both short-term and long-term, of COVID.

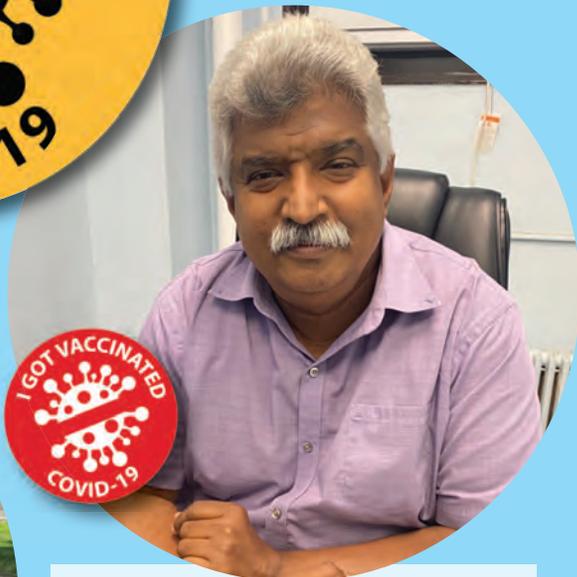

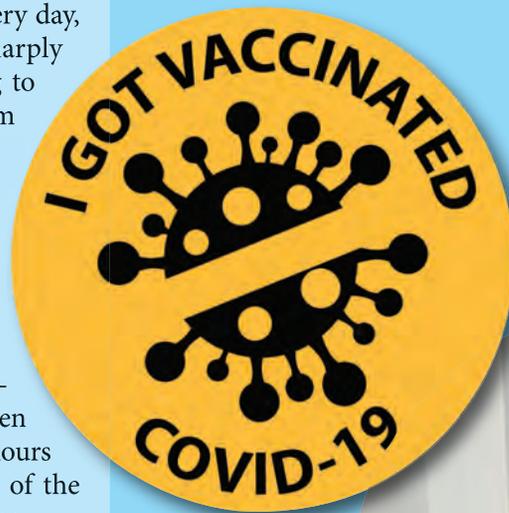

However, we are not out of the woods yet. The CDC warns that those who are not vaccinated are still at risk of contracting the virus, and with new and more dangerous variants, the vaccines are a highly effective way to protect you, your loved ones, and the community at large.

If you have not been vaccinated and have questions or concerns about the vaccines, talk with your doctor and seek out information to get your questions answered. If you haven't been vaccinated and decide to do so, you will be given up to four hours of compensatory time for each shot, and upon completion of the vaccinations, you will be awarded 3 hours of compensatory time.

Our members have been on the front lines of this pandemic, from the very first day, as essential workers who kept this city going during the toughest of times. We applaud your efforts – thank you!

POLITICAL AND LABOR NEWS

State and City Legislative Year-end Review

By Vito R. Pitta, Esq. Member, Pitta Bishop & Del Giorno, LLC

June is always a busy month in New York State and City government and politics. This year certainly proved to be no exception. The New York State Legislature concluded its regular legislative session on June 10, 2021. Governor Cuomo announced on June 15, 2021 that since 70% of all New Yorkers had received at least their first dose of a vaccine, all COVID-19 restrictions imposed by New York State would be lifted. New York City citywide primary elections were held on June 22, 2021 for the offices of Mayor, Public Advocate, Comptroller, Borough President, and City Council, as well as for the District Attorney of Manhattan and certain judicial races. And the Mayor and City Council on June 29, 2021 announced that they had reached agreement on the Fiscal Year 2022 budget in time for the July 1, 2021 deadline.

New York State Legislative Session

This year's legislative session marked a return to almost a pre-COVID-19 normalcy. While restrictions on visitors to the Capitol and Legislative Office Building were still in effect throughout the entire legislative session, the legislature was not consumed only with COVID-19-related legislative items and approved a significant increase in legislation under consideration (about 900 bills passed both houses), when compared with the prior session (only about 400 bills passed both houses). As is customary, many bills were passed at the very end of session and delivered to the Governor for consideration.

ONE PACKAGE OF BILLS RELATED TO GUN SAFETY:

- Fire Arm Industry Responsibility: Legislation (S7196) sponsored by Senator Zelnor Myrie and Assemblymember Pat Fahy would allow those responsible for the sale, manufacture, importing or marketing of guns to be held liable for the public nuisance caused by such actions. The bill complies with the Protection of Lawful Commerce in Arms Act (PLCAA) as interpreted by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in City of New York v. Berretta USA Corps.
- Jose Webster Untraceable Firearms Act: Sponsored by Senator Brad Hoylman and Assemblymember Linda Rosenthal, the Act (S14A) would prohibit the possession of ghost guns which are unserialized firearms typically assembled from unserialized parts. It would require licensed gunsmiths to serialize and register with the New York State Police any unserialized firearm, rifle, shotgun, finished frame or receiver, or unfinished frame or receiver in their possession.
- Scott J. Beigel Unfinished Receiver Act: This Act (S13-A), sponsored by Senator Anna Kaplan and Assemblyman Charles Lavine, would prohibit the possession and sale of unfinished frames and receivers by individuals that are not licensed gunsmiths. Because guns assembled from unfinished frames and receivers do not have serial numbers, they are untraceable and can be built and transported without the normal background checks required when purchasing a gun from a licensed retailer.
- Gun Possession Prohibition for Individuals with Outstanding Warrants: This legislation (S500B), sponsored by Senator Brian Kavanagh and Assemblymember Amy Paulin, would prohibit the purchase, acquisition, sale or disposal of a weapon by or to anyone known to be the subject of an outstanding warrant of arrest for the alleged commission of a felony or serious offense. It would also prohibit an individual from purchasing or acquiring a gun on behalf of another person who the purchaser or acquirer knows to be the subject of such a warrant.
- Extreme Risk Protections Orders: This legislation (A1005A) that would require mental health facilities to provide patients and their authorized representative with information on how to seek an extreme risk protection order prior to a patient's discharge or conditional release. This builds on the 2019 red flag law, which allows law enforcement to confiscate firearms and prohibit an individual from purchasing a firearm if they are deemed to be a threat, and if an extreme risk protection court order is issued. It is sponsored by Assemblymember Amy Paulin and Senator Peter Harkham.
- Gun Crime Reporting: Sponsored by Senator Michael Gianaris and Assemblymember Diana Richardson, this bill (S1251) would require the Division of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) and the Division of State Police to publish quarterly reports providing information on firearms, rifles and shotguns that are used in the commission of crimes in New York.
- Toy Guns: This legislation (A6522) would amend the definition of "disguised gun" to include any rifle, shotgun or machine gun that resembles a toy gun. This would prohibit the possession, manufacture and design of such disguised guns. It is sponsored by Assemblymember Steve Stern and Senator John Brooks.

OTHER NOTEWORTHY BILLS PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE AND DELIVERED TO THE GOVERNOR ARE AS FOLLOWS:

- A108B -- Assemblymember Gunther/Senator Rivera -- Establishes clinical staffing committees in each general hospital to develop and oversee a clinical staffing plan.
- A1634 -- Sponsored by Assemblyman Perry/Senator Bailey -- Provides that the State Commission on Prosecutorial Conduct shall investigate complaints and may make

CSBA President Saul Fishman Re-Elected to a Fourth Term

Civil Service Bar Association President Saul Fishman was re-elected to a fourth three-year term, without opposition, at the CSBA nominations meeting on Wednesday evening May 12th.

Saul attributes this to recognition by the membership that he and his team have worked hard to assist and protect all members as best as possible, regardless of their agency or the stage of their career. "Whether the issue is safety from the COVID pandemic, avoiding layoffs, successfully passing probation, student loan reduction, paid family leave, grievance and disciplinary representation, collective bargaining advocacy including a fair distribution of Recurring Increment Payments and Longevity Differential monies, or keeping the members informed about the Early Retirement Incentive via our Facebook page, website or by letter, email or phone, we strive to help all members throughout their careers as Agency Attorneys or in related titles," said President Fishman.

Also unopposed were Lester Paverman, First Vice President; Michaele Bober, Second Vice President; Kevin Hsi, Corresponding President; Ka Ng, Recording Secretary; Abbe Kalnick, Treasurer; Gladys Egwuonwu and Michele Mirro, Welfare Fund Trustees; and the following individuals to the Board of Directors: Kiiru Gichuru, Brigitte Rajacic, Robert Spiesman, Renee Storey, Bernard Tordesillas, Helen Thomas Tsalevich, and Vincent Verdi.

a recommendation to the Governor that a prosecutor be removed; provides that the commission shall transmit its findings of fact and recommendations to the appellate division; provides that the appellate division may accept or reject such recommendations or impose a different sanction.

- A7119 -- Sponsored by Assemblymember Gunther/Senator Rivera -- Provides for standard minimum nursing home staffing levels by regulations promulgated by the commissioner of health.
- A7127 -- Sponsored by Assemblyman Bronson/Senator Kaplan -- Provides for certain commercial small businesses to be eligible for relief under the "COVID-19 Emergency Protect Our Small Businesses Act of 2021."

- S4201A -- Sponsored by Senator Savino/M of A Abbate -- Prohibits public employers from retaliating against employees for absences related to COVID-19.

END OF COVID-19 RESTRICTIONS

New York State reached the 70% vaccination milestone on Tuesday, June 15, 2021 with Governor Andrew Cuomo tweeting, "... That means we can return to life as we know it. Effective immediately, state-mandated COVID restrictions are lifted across commercial and social settings." However, as the day progressed, it was clarified that all New Yorkers may not be free to move about the State.

Governor Cuomo lifted the mandatory State COVID-19 restrictions and New York Forward Industry Guidance across commercial settings, including retail, food services, offices, gyms and fitness centers, amusement and family entertainment, hair salons, barber shops, and personal care services. However, unvaccinated individuals are responsible for continuing to wear a mask, per federal Center for Disease Control (CDC) guidance. In addition, large-scale indoor events venues, Pre-K to 12 schools, public transit, homeless shelters, correctional facilities, nursing homes and health care settings must still adhere to existing COVID-19 health protocols per CDC guidelines.

Following the Governor's initial announcement, further information was released by his office specifying that the State's health guidance and New York Forward industry specific guidelines are now "optional" for the newly opened settings and that the reopening guidance will be "archived and made available as a public reference." With the removal of the State's minimum standards for reopening, the Governor's office explained that businesses are free to choose to lift all or some restrictions, continue to adhere to the State's archived guidance, or implement other health precautions for their employees and patrons.

According to the Governor's press release, businesses are also authorized to require masks and six feet of social distancing for employees and patrons within their establishments, regardless of vaccination status. Any mask requirements that businesses choose to implement must adhere to applicable federal and state laws and regulations, such as the Americans with Disabilities Act.

New York's New Power of Attorney

By Mary E. Sheridan, Esq.

Director of Local 237 Legal Services Plan

On June 13, 2021, New York's new Power of Attorney law went into effect. There are some big changes to the standard form and legal requirements which will simplify the process. It is important to know that if you have a power of attorney which was properly completed and signed prior to June 13th, you do not have to execute a new one. But, if you executed a power of attorney using the old form after June 13th, then you will have an invalid power of attorney.

The old law required that any power of attorney had to strictly comply with the language in the New York statutory short form. This caused many problems for people when inadvertent errors were made in preparing the form. Now, the legal requirement is that the power of attorney form must only "substantially conform" to the statutory form.

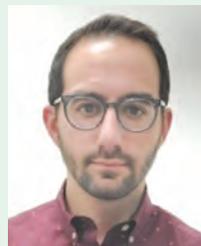

In the 2010 power of attorney form, the Principal (person giving another the power to sign their name) had to execute a Gift Rider in order to allow the named Agent (person to whom the power is given) to give gifts on behalf of the Principal over the amount of $500.

Now, you can add modifications to the Power of Attorney spelling out gifting powers and if you do not, the Agent may still gift up to $5,000 each year on behalf of the Principal.

Another big change relates to situations where a Principal is unable to physically initial or sign the document. The new law allows the Principal to direct a third party to sign for him or her so long as they sign in the Principal's presence.

Finally, under the previous law, institutions would often wrongly reject a power of attorney form. Most often this came from banks incorrectly stating that the bank form power of attorney was required. The new law specifically states that institutions may not unreasonably reject a power of attorney and if they do unreasonably reject, then they are subject to penalties by a court.

Having a Power of Attorney as part of your estate planning is incredibly important. Your Legal Services Plan can prepare the Power of Attorney form for you, along with drafting your Will and Health Care Proxy. Call us at (212) 924-1220. ■

What is ransomware and how do you protect yourself from being a victim?

By Anthony Morano

Chief Information Officer

In the most recent weeks, Ransomware has been a hot topic in mainstream news- with the most recent attacks being the Colonial Pipeline and JBS meat processing. But what exactly is ransomware and how do you prevent yourself from being a victim? Ransomware is a type of malware (or deliberately malicious software) that, when executed, encrypts all the files on your computer. To decrypt the files, the end user is asked to pay a "ransom" to gain the code for decryption. Ransomware has been around for many years but has recently gained a lot of traction because of cryptocurrency (an online currency). Cryptocurrency has provided a gateway for hackers both inside and outside our borders to be paid, without leaving a trail of breadcrumbs to the actual person/entity that cashes out the online currency into physical monetary dollars.

So how do you prevent yourself from being a victim of ransomware?

1. Never open emails from people that you are unfamiliar with. If possible, do a web search of the From address and see if it is known to have come from a known malicious sender.
2. If you get an email from someone that you are familiar with, and you open it, but it has an attachment or a clickable link in the body, and you were not expecting it- do not open the attachment or click the link. Contact the sender and let them know that items within the email looked suspicious and ask them to confirm if they sent you that email (perhaps their email account was compromised).

3. Ensure you that you have some form of Antivirus protection on your computer. There are many free options available:
 - a. Microsoft Defender (built into most Windows 10 computers today)
 - b. AVG Antivirus
 - c. Avast Antivirus
4. Be careful which websites you go to on the Internet. If you do a web search for a specific topic, be vigilant of the description of the website. If the description does not make sense, e.g. misspelled words or the description seems choppy, avoid the website.
5. Avoid any emails, websites, or programs that have special characters in their names. If you find that something was supposed to have a "0", but it instead has a "o", that is probably from a noncredible source and has been comprised.
6. If you are still unsure after all the above points have been reviewed, ask a friend or relative. Find someone who is more tech savvy and ask them to look at what you received or what you were trying to go to. It always helps to have another pair of eyes determine if something looks suspicious or is in fact legitimate. ■

The State's COVID restrictions remain in effect for large-scale indoor event venues—now defined as indoor venues that hold more than 5,000 attendees. Consistent with the State's implementation of the CDC guidelines, proof of vaccination can be used to eliminate social distancing and remove masks for fully vaccinated individuals. Unvaccinated or unknown vaccination status individuals who are over the age of four must continue to present proof of a recent negative diagnostic COVID-19 test result and wear masks within the venue. However, social distancing can be reduced or eliminated between tested attendees, allowing venues to reach 100 percent capacity in all sections.

JUNE 22, 2021 NEW YORK CITY PRIMARY ELECTION

As polls closed on Primary Election night and New York City completed the 2021 primary election, it became clear that many competitive races across the City would be decided by the new ranked-choice voting system. Under ranked-choice voting, voters in primary and special elections are able to rank up to five candidates for any covered election in order of preference. If a candidate obtains over 50% of the votes cast in the first round, they win and the counting stops. If no candidate gets more than 50% in the first round, then the candidate with the lowest votes is eliminated and their votes are redistributed to the voter's next preferred candidate.

As of the closing of the polls, only a small number of races could be considered certain, with a mathematically impossible change in the top-ranked candidate. No results are actually "final" according to the NYC Board of Elections (BOE). Military and absentee ballots are only counted after election day and may continue to be received by the BOE for up to a week following the election. On June 29, 2021, the BOE began publishing the results of unofficial preliminary rankings, before taking into account absentee, military, special, and affidavit ballots. The update of tallies with absentees was anticipated to be published on July 6, 2021. The final RCV results were anticipated to be published and certified by the BOE on July 12, 2021.

NEW YORK CITY FISCAL YEAR 2022 BUDGET

By July 1 of every year, the Mayor and City Council of the City of New York are required to have passed a budget for the city. Each fiscal year begins on July 1 and ends on June 30. On June 29, 2021, Mayor de Blasio and Speaker Johnson announced that they had reached agreement on such a fiscal year budget by the statutory July 1 deadline. According to a joint press release, the Mayor and Speaker referred to the FY22 budget as a "Recovery Budget," which had five core goals: replenishing reserves, finishing the fight against COVID-19, boosting economic growth, driving academic recovery, and keeping communities safe. The press release announced the following key features of the FY22 budget:

- Strong Fiscal Management includes Building and Maintaining Reserves
 - The Adopted Recovery Budget adds $500 million to the City's Rainy Day Fund. This brings total reserves in FY22 to $5.1 billion, with $3.8 billion in the Retiree Health Benefits Trust, $993 million in the Rainy Day Fund, and $300 million in the General Reserve.
 - The Adopted Budget achieves $4.0 billion in savings over Fiscal Years 2021 (FY21) and 2022 since last June – the second largest two-year savings total at Budget Adoption of this Administration.
 - The City's tax revenue forecast exceeded expectations in FY21 with an increase of $2.1 billion driven by higher than expected personal income tax.
- Finishing the COVID Fight
 - The City spent nearly $8 billion in the fight against COVID-19, including administering 9.2 million vaccinations, with more than 4.6 million New Yorkers having received at least one dose. While long term trends show the City's aggressive and comprehensive vaccination campaign has driven down cases, hospitalizations, and deaths, the fight continues.
 - In this Recovery Budget, the administration promoted public health by expanding the grassroots vaccination campaign and, making investments to establish New York City as the public health capital of the world.
- Boosting Economic Growth
 - The Recovery Budget commits $11 million to NYC Business Quick Start, a program that will help slash red tape and help small businesses navigate City regulations.
 - The budget also invests in programs that are intended to build generational wealth and tackle the racial wealth gap, including:
 - * Expanding NYC Kids Rise with Universal NYC Baby Bonds, a program that gives every kindergartner a savings account with at least $100 this September ($15M in FY22)
 - * Establishing four-year CUNY Scholarships at full scale for Black and low-income students ($4M in FY22)
 - * Providing paid internships in science, business, public health, and the green economy for students at Medgar Evers College to pair academic pursuits with an opportunity to make change and help our city recover ($500,000 in FY22)
 - * To boost the local economy, in April's Executive Budget the Administration made a $30 million investment – the largest in city history – to promote tourism.
- Driving Academic Recovery
 - In Fiscal Year 2021, the administration established fully universal free 3-K for All, expanded early childhood special education and Restorative Justice for Social Emotional Learning in middle and high schools, and strengthened special education services.

- This summer, all New York students have access to Summer Rising, a program to address their academic and social emotional needs through tailored support. This program will provide a bridge to next school year and allow students to reconnect with one another and with their schools.
- Building Recovery through Public Safety
 - Since June 2020, the administration has added nearly $39 million to expand Cure Violence and the Crisis Management System. The NYPD has re-deployed an additional 200 officers performing administrative functions to the field full time, specifically assigned to high violence commands.
 - In the Adopted Budget, the Administration has made targeted investments to break the cycle of incarceration and take on recidivism. This budget uses employment as an anti-violence measure. That effort includes:
 - * Increasing healthcare, housing, and employment counseling for justice-involved New Yorkers who are returning to the community ($57M in FY22)
 - * Expanding "Jails to Jobs" to provide more formerly incarcerated individuals with comprehensive healthcare services and transitional employment ($6.6M in FY22)
 - * Providing peer mentorship for incarcerated individuals with Crisis Management System Credible Messengers ($5M in FY22)

Resumen En Español

Los apodos tienen significado. Un slogan o sobrenombre tiene la intención de representar la cualidad o característica principal de una persona o un grupo. Para los miembros del Departamento de Policía de la Ciudad de Nueva York (NYPD por sus siglas en inglés) es "los mejores", para el Departamento de Bomberos es "los más valientes" y para el Departamento de Salud es "los más fuertes". Para nosotros los miembros de Local 237, en donde hay todo tipo de cargos, es mucho más complicado identificarnos con un solo sobrenombre que incluya todos los trabajos que hacemos. Por eso, ¿qué es lo que hay en común entre todos nuestros miembros, cuyos trabajos diarios hacen una diferencia importante en la vida de todos los neoyorquinos, en especial los más vulnerables, y que alcanzaron nuevos niveles como trabajadores esenciales durante la pandemia? ¿Qué palabra los describiría mejor a todos? ¿Qué tal "Los más confiables"? Los neoyorquinos cuentan con nosotros y cumplimos. Y a través de nuestras ediciones de Newsline, hemos presentado y continuaremos presentando a miembros del Local 237 cuyo trabajo incansable subraya el hecho de que sin dudas necesitamos a "los mejores", "los más valientes" y "los más fuertes" y ciertamente necesitamos a "los más confiables" también.

Oficiales de la fuerza pública del Departamento de Servicios para Personas sin Hogar

Policía del Departamento de Seguridad Nacional
2021 Día de la medalla
12 de mayo de 2021

Más de medio millón de personas carecen de hogar en Estados Unidos. El 35 % no tiene un techo para vivir. Las más de 80.000 personas sin hogar en la ciudad de Nueva York, 4000 de las cuales duermen en la calle y en el metro, representan el 20 % de toda la población sin hogar del país. La pandemia afectó a todos, especialmente a las personas sin hogar, para quienes el sistema de refugios hizo que la aplicación de las restricciones y precauciones relacionadas con Covid fuera prácticamente imposible de implementar y hacer cumplir. La alcaldía trató de idear una forma de limitar los riesgos transfiriendo a 8000 personas sin hogar de los refugios a los hoteles, lo que fue recibido con una tremenda oposición de la comunidad. Más recientemente, con las tasas de infección por Covid-19 en un mínimo histórico, el gobernador Cuomo levantó la mayoría de las restricciones restantes, lo que llevó a la Administración de De Blasio a prepararse para trasladar a las personas sin hogar a los refugios. ¡Nuestros miembros de los oficiales de policía del Departamento de Servicios para Personas sin Hogar realmente tienen mucho trabajo por delante! Asumir este nuevo desafío demuestra que, entre sus muchos atributos, sin duda les sienta bien el apodo de "Confiable". Tienen un trabajo duro que trata con una clientela muy vulnerable, la burocracia y el público que solo quiere que el problema desaparezca. Han pasado 5 años desde que sus esfuerzos fueron reconocidos públicamente. En mayo, estos oficiales de policía del DHS, que hicieron más de lo que su deber les requería, fueron homenajeados en una ceremonia de premiación. El presidente del Local 237, Gregory Floyd, estuvo presente para felicitarlos. Dijo en ese momento: "Estos oficiales del DHS son héroes. No, no pueden chocar con un edificio en llamas todos los días, ni detener a un asesino todos los días o incluso protegernos de las ratas y otras alimañas todos los días, pero su trabajo implica todos estos actos esenciales en cualquier momento, y por esto, nosotros debemos estar agradecidos".

"Tuve el honor de presentar algunos premios a algunos de nuestros oficiales de la fuerza pública, sargentos, tenientes y capitanes del DHS en el Día de la Premiación de la Policía del DHS que se llevó a cabo el 12 de mayo. Cuando pienso en el Departamento de Policía del DHS, no puedo pensar en un grupo de personas más resistentes, compasivas y honorables. Los oficiales de policía del DHS se enfrentan diariamente a situaciones de alto riesgo y adversidades, y a pesar de todo esto, dan lo mejor de sí mismos cada día. Los oficiales de la fuerza pública del DHS ayudan a mantener seguros a los clientes, el personal, las partes interesadas y nuestras comunidades sin hogar, y lo hacen con orgullo y honor. ¡Los saludo a todos!"

Inspector adjunto

Members of Teamsters Local 237 do not forget. Their co-workers and their friends will forever be remembered, and the memory of their loss during the pandemic will be permanently embedded in their hearts and minds.

On behalf of President Gregory Floyd, the Executive Board and Staff, we offer sincere condolences to the families, and appreciation for sharing your loved one with us.

Eligibility For Spouses' Benefits

By Anny Rosario Diaz
Assistant District Manager, Social Security in Downtown Manhattan

Social Security helps you secure today and tomorrow with financial benefits, information, and tools that support you throughout life's journey. If you don't have enough Social Security credits to qualify for benefits on your own record, you may be able to receive benefits on your spouse's record.

To qualify for spouse's benefits, you must be one of the following:

- 62 years of age or older.
- Any age and have in your care a child who is younger than age 16 or who is disabled and entitled to receive benefits on your spouse's record.

Your full spouse's benefit could be up to one-half the amount your spouse is entitled to receive at their full retirement age. If you choose to receive your spouse's benefits before you reach full retirement age, you will get a permanently reduced benefit.

If you wait until you reach full retirement age to receive benefits, you'll receive your full spouse's benefit amount, which is up to half the amount your spouse can receive. You'll also get your full spouse's benefit if you are under full retirement age, but care for a child and one of the following applies:

- The child is younger than age 16.
- The child has a disability and is entitled to receive benefits on your spouse's record.

If you're eligible to receive retirement benefits on your own record, we will pay that amount first. If your benefits as a spouse are higher than your own retirement benefits, you will get a combination of benefits that equal the higher spouse benefit. For example, Sandy qualifies for a retirement benefit of $1,000 and a spouse's benefit of $1,250. At her full retirement age, she will receive her own $1,000 retirement benefit. We will add $250 from her spouse's benefit, for a total of $1,250.

Want to apply for either your or your spouse's benefits? Are you at least 61 years and nine months old? If you answered yes to both, visit www.ssa.gov/benefits/retirement to get started today.

Are you divorced from a marriage that lasted at least 10 years? You may be able to get benefits on your former spouse's record. You can find out more by visiting www.ssa.gov/planners/retire/divspouse.html for more information. |
